

WHO IS SAINT JAMES?

Saint James Comics LLC was founded in 2009 by Robert Russell and Jesse Young, two friends who wanted nothing more than to tell stories and publish the sorts of comics they enjoyed reading themselves. Russell and Young are dedicated to producing high-end, eclectic titles, titles that would stand out from the plethora of run-of-the-mill series already saturating the market.

Rather than just present the reader with a finished product, Saint James chooses to share all the details of what goes in to making a series: the good, the bad, and especially the ugly. Saint James wants the reader to know how about the pitfalls of being an independent publisher in today's market and what we go through to bring to you a finished story. One of the most active ways Saint James has devoted itself to this cause is by blogging on a daily basis.

Saint James also actively solicits fans to get involved. We invite anyone and everyone to leave feedback for us, to send us queries and comments so we may better serve our readers and, rather than turn them away, we actively request that artists send us their ideas. Just recently, Saint James launched the Saint James Army Program which is designed to get fans of Saint James comic books out on the street to spread the word, inviting them to participate in a way that no other comic book company has ever done before while rewarding them in the process.

Saint James currently has six comic series in development, with a fan base rapidly forming:

- EX OCCULTUS - X-Files meets Indiana Jones in the 1800s. Need we say more?
- INDEGO BLUE - Futuristic society, totalitarian government, and a half-man, half-dog vigilante.
- YOUTH IS SWEET - Limited series about mature government agents hell-bent on surviving a young assassination squad.
- MINUTE MEN - Time traveling cops police the borders of America's history.
- HOUSE WITH CHIMERAS - Demons, a secret government agency, and an old house that may in fact be a portal to alternate dimensions.
- THE STRANGE - Webcomic with a unique spin on post-apocalyptic life.

WHY CARRY SAINT JAMES IN YOUR STORE?

Saint James prides itself on publishing stories that are not only unique, but actively engaging and therefore addicting. We produce the kind of quality tales that fans ask for, but often don't find. This is an opportunity to get involved in the next generation of comic book companies—where everything and anything is done for the sake of the story, with no bureaucratic nonsense to get in the way. Our aim is to bridge the gap between independent publishers and industry giants, a place that so far has remained vacant. While many independent presses fail for not thinking big enough, others think too big and lose sight of their original vision.
